THE LATE FIRE at Messrs. COLLARD'S.
The official return of the recent fire at the extensive establishment shows that, in addition to the large amount of property destroyed belonging to the firm, the working tools of their workmen have been likewise sacrificed. It appears, also, from the proceedings of a public meeting held for raising subscriptions to meet the heavy losses sustained by the workmen, that they were wholly uninsured. With the hope of preventing such a calamity, the SCEPTRE LIFE AND FIRE ASSURANCE SOCIETY will grant to the workmen employed in the above manufactory, and in all other manufactories throughout the country, Fire Policies for small sums; and, in order to afford every facility to securers, will appoint the foreman of each establishment their agent. Prospectuses, and all other information, may be had of the Managing Director, at the Offices, 27, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, London.
